

Help Handling School and Cancer

Depending on your treatment plan, you may be able to continue to attend school and keep up with schoolwork, with short breaks for appointments and treatment, or you may need to take more time off from school.

Staying Involved

There may be times during treatment when you can't go to school on a regular basis. Staying involved with school can help you feel like you're missing less and make it easier to return when you are ready.

- Keep in touch with your friends through texting, social media, phone calls, or visits.
- Ask a classmate to take notes for you if you need to miss a class.
- Ask teachers, instructors, professors if you can have access to their notes or a recording of the class.
- Attending special school events important to you is another way to stay connected.

Content adapted from websites below.

Talking with staff

If you need to take a break from school, miss class frequently, or struggle to complete schoolwork, contact your school to discuss these situations. Depending on the school, you may need to talk with the registrar, your advisor, instructors and/or professors. If possible, the best time to discuss the issues or options listed below is before treatment begins and before returning to school after a long absence:

- Attendance, since you may need to miss days or classes for treatment and appointments
- Any accommodations you might need such as fewer classes, a shortened school day, a closer parking space, or additional time to complete assignments or tests
- Some hospitals have educational coordinators or social workers who can meet with staff to explain your situation and needs.
- If possible, ask your doctor to give you an estimate for how long and how often you may be away from school.

Keeping up with schoolwork

- You may expect yourself to keep up with the demand of school or to resume school at the level you did before cancer. Going to school may be tiring during and after cancer. Take it easy at first and don't overdo things. Your health is the most important priority. Be aware of your body's energy level and take breaks, or delay restarting some activities until your energy level improves. Sometimes talking through your responsibilities and expectations with another person can help you re-prioritize your tasks.
- If you find that school is harder than it used to be or you have more difficulty keeping up with your schoolwork, ask for help. Some cancers and treatments can affect your ability to concentrate, your memory, your ability to understand reading material or your ability to put thoughts together. Some of these challenges may be temporary, or some may last longer. Not everyone will have difficulties with learning during and after cancer treatment, but if you notice differences talk with your doctor about your concerns and talk to your school about possible options to make school possible for you.

Legal Rights:

The following 3 federal laws help protect the rights of students with educational needs resulting from cancer treatment:

- The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) – Link Here
- The Individuals With Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) – Link HERE
- The Rehabilitation Act of 1973 – Section 504 – Link HERE

Resources for Additional Information:

- Cancer.Net, Managing School During and After Cancer
- Support for College Students with Cancer
- Support for College Students with Cancer – EDUMED
- Cactus Cancer Society Speaker Series Talk: Creating A Realistic Academic Plan
- Scholarships and Resources, National Collegiate Cancer Foundation
- Scholarships, Cancer for College
- College Scholarships.org
- Dana-Farber, Cancer Institute, Tips for Starting College During Cancer Treatment

Recursos en Español:

- American Cancer Society, Para la persona a cargo del cuidado de alguien con cancer
- Cancer.Net, Manejar la escuela durante y después del cáncer